Find the Best Resources for You

With kids back in the full swing of the school year, many people are working with their children to help them learn new subjects, or to improve on something they may not be comfortable with yet. Just like getting kids to sit down and work on a subject they don't like, convincing adults to take time out of their busy day to learn about finances or saving for retirement can be similarly difficult. Often times we find that if information is presented in a different format, it makes it easier for someone to understand.

At Ohio DC, we've learned that different people learn, absorb and process information in a wide variety of ways. While one person might learn best from reading a short article or pamphlet, someone else might absorb information better from a video, or possibly by using an online tool or calculator.

At Ohio DC we work hard to provide our participants with a variety of options for learning about finance and retirement saving, to help address the different ways that people process information. If you're the sort of person that's most comfortable with written materials, you can read any of our publications here, if you'd like to watch informational videos, try here or you can use one of our tools or calculators here. Give them all a try to figure out which one works best for you.

If you don't feel like any of the options above is what you're looking for, you can always call our Service Center at 877-644-6457 to speak to one of our Account Executives, or visit our website at Ohio457.org to see what all we have to offer there.
