National Retirement Security Week 2017

National Retirement Security Week (NRSW) will happen October 15-17 and is an annual reminder from the National Association of Government Defined Compensation Administrators (NAGDCA) that we all need to be saving for retirement. NAGDCA is working together with plan sponsors, pension plans and the U.S. Senate to remind people about how important it is to save money so we can be in control of their own financial future. Here's a link to a quick video about why it's so important to start saving now.

Many people don't realize that they could spend as much time in retirement as they do in the workforce. That's often a big surprise, but you can see in the graphic here, how that works out. Once you realize how much of your life you'll spend in retirement, it might help you make the decision to start saving now, instead of waiting until you're closer to retirement.

Maybe you'd like to know about some of the options you have for saving through a program like Ohio Deferred Compensation. If so, you can take a look at this link about target date funds, or maybe you'd like to know how much of a difference starting to save early can make by clicking here. NAGDCA even put together information for specific age groups. If you're under 35, click here. If you're 35-50, go here. And if you're 50 or above, take a look here. Basically, we have information and resources for you no matter where you are in your retirement savings journey.

If you'd like to learn more about NRSW, visit the participant site here. If you'd like to get started on your own journey, visit the Ohio Deferred Compensation website at www.Ohio457.org or call our Service Center at 877-644-6457.
